

From day...

Chances are you already have a maxi dress or two in your wardrobe, but only revisit ones that reach your feet – three-quarter length is not the same trend. If you are shy about areas such as your upper arms, a sheer throw-over jacket can give you confidence, and shield you from draughts. Opt for open-toe shoes as closed-toe shoes can look frumpy with this look.

Chloé sunglasses, $589.

Luxe Accessories 'Beige London Flats' sandals, $145.

G2 by George Gross silk jacket, $329; Saxonne 'Love Me Tender' dress $185; Joveeba black bandeau, $44.

Lumière necklace, $49.95.

Manzoni bag, $259.

To night

Generally, empire-line dresses (where the waistline is just below the bust) are best for your age group as they direct the eye to the narrowest part of your body. If you are shy about showing too much cleavage, a bandeau is perfect for concealing your décolletage (and gives you the option of buying dresses you might normally feel are too revealing).

Equip gold studs, $14.99 (part of set of nine).

Skagen gold watch, $195.

In your...
50+

JK for iboutique bag, $179.

Diana Ferrari 'Cynthia' satin heels, $129.95.

